History/Overview

Delaware North Companies Sportservice has been a trusted partner of the St. Louis Cardinals since 1953. The company began managing food and beverage for the Cardinals at Sportsman's Park.

In the 1960's, both the Cardinals and Sportservice's operations moved to Busch Stadium in downtown St. Louis. The ballpark would stand as an urban icon for the city and spur substantial development in the area. Sportservice continually grew its operations over the ballpark's 40 years.

In 2006, Sportservice helped the Cardinals open their new, state-of-the-art 46,000-seat ballpark in downtown St. Louis. In the Cardinals first year in the new Busch Stadium, they became the first team in almost 100 years to win a World Series Championship in the inaugural season of a new ballpark.

Today, Sportservice manages all concessions, catering, premium dining and retail for the Cardinals. In addition to its regular operations, the company will oversee several off-site events and new retail posts when Busch Stadium hosts the 2009 MLB All Star Game in July.
